

The creation of a large bank of Congress does not establish the Scotch system. It is a mere assumption that it can enforce the system. In fact, nothing but a perfect freedom of association for banking purposes can create a necessity for the adoption of any check that will operate throughout a State.

The Atlas accuses us of injustice and unfairness for having represented it as being opposed to the Scotch System. We presume, therefore, that it professes itself to be in favor of the Scotch System. It then explains itself thus—

"We started with the premise, that many of the leading Tory Journals, had expressed a high admiration of the currency and banking of Scotland; and that these same journals were opposed to the present banking system of this country and the advocates of a METALLIC CURRENCY."

"We then demonstrated that these two positions were utterly antagonistic, and that one or the other of them must be abandoned."

The ground assumed, then, by the Atlas is that, first to approve of the Scotch System, and second to oppose our present system of banking and approve of a metallic currency—are two utterly antagonistic positions, one of which must be abandoned.

We will do the Atlas the justice, then, to explain to our readers—first, that the Atlas is in favor of "THE SCOTCH SYSTEM"; and that we were in error in supposing that it meant to attack it—next, that it is in favor of our present system of banking and opposed to a metallic currency—third, that if any of them continue to approve the Scotch system and a metallic currency and to oppose the present banking system, they will be lamented by the Atlas for their inconsistency. But, as there is nothing in the peculiarities of the Scotch system which would cause its nature or usefulness to be destroyed, by an enlargement of the metallic base, or by altering the present mode of forming banks, or by abolishing the exclusive privileges now enjoyed by them, they will probably doubt the assertion of the Atlas that it has demonstrated that the system of a metallic currency and opposition to the present banking system is utterly antagonistic to "the Scotch system." We have seen no demonstration on this point yet: we have seen assertion—which is no doubt the kind of demonstration meant—the ordinary method with the Atlas being to assert a falsehood until it has deceived itself, when it modestly concludes that it has demonstrated the whole matter to its readers. Like Dogberry, it thinks that by asserting any thing, "it is proved already and it will go near to be thought so shortly." In this way it has "DEMONSTRATED" that Gen Jackson and Col Benton were in favor of an exclusively metallic currency—a falsehood which the messages of one and the speeches of the other utterly disprove.

We are opposed to the present system of banking and in favor of a metallic currency, and we are at the same time in favor of the Scotch system. The Atlas may lament over our inconsistency in holding "these two utterly antagonistic positions;" but we shall take the liberty also of laughing at the Atlas's "demonstration" that they are "two utterly antagonistic positions."

"The only essential and material difference," says the Atlas, "between the United States and Scotland, as far as the currency is concerned, is in the fact that Scotland has in her Banks and in circulation much the smaller proportion of the PRECIOUS METALS."

Now a press, that is so ignorant or so deceitful as to make an assertion of this kind, does not require frequent contradiction. Such assertions are too grossly false. But we shall soon be told in some leading article (with "RAGS FOR THE PEOPLE AND SPECIE FOR THE OFFICE HOLDERS," in large capitals) that it has been "demonstrated." We shall also be told over and over again that Gen Jackson and Martin Van Buren are "proved already" to have been in favor of an exclusively metallic currency and "it will go near to be thought so" shortly.

Misrepresentation Corrected.—The Washington Globe of Friday says that the statement purporting to be from the N. Y. Commercial—"that the collector had received orders from the Treasury Department, to require all the goods at present deposited in the public stores to be bonded, and the duties on all subject to cash duties, to be paid immediately"—is a total perversion of the truth, as the orders extend only to such portions of them as cannot by law remain unbonded or unpaid. But who can expect anything except continued misrepresentations from the chief organs of a party which would cease to exist if they only told the truth, and did not mislead anybody?

Quite Democratic.—Gov Clark, of Kentucky, has declined calling an extra meeting of the Legislature. In his answer to the Committee of Louisville, he says it would do no good—that it would add to the alarm—that the people are against it—that the banks must gradually curtail their circulation and resume specie payments—that the Legislature have no power to pass stop laws, but will probably overlook the existing suspension as one caused by imperious necessity.

The Referees.—In the famous case between the proprietors of the Bangor House, and Mr Wood, its lessee, have awarded to Mr Wood, eighteen months rent of premises, $4000, a promissory note given to proprietors—half the amount of taxes on premises—$1700 for use and depreciation of furniture—$500 costs. Amounting in all to between eight and ten thousand dollars.

Awarded to Proprietors.—In the three actions brought by them against Mr Wood, in one of which the Municipal Court ordered him to recognise in the sum of $24,000—the proprietors were awarded the sum of $85, and half the costs of reference.

§ We have in type an explanation of an article lately published in the Atlas, about the "gross injustice of the Government" in demanding specie and paying paper—the trouble one of its friends had with a Treasury Warrant for $1,340, &c., which we are obliged to omit until to-morrow, and that will be full as soon as the parties concerned will wish to see it.

§ Things are going on in prime style for the celebration at Faneuil Hall on the 4th inst. We expect the company will be the most numerous that ever dined there. Old democracy is wide awake.

General Jackson has published in the Nashville Union, his long-promised address to the public in reply to Judge White's evidence before the Investigating Committee.—We have not yet received a copy, but shall re-publish it as soon as we do.

Literary Celebration of 4th July, at Quincy.—The children of the town schools are to be present in mass and the orator, the Rev. Mr Brooks of Hingham, is to address them and the inhabitants on the great topic of Education. Worthily, worthy use of this sacred day. We wish them all imaginable success.

Capt. Sturgis, of the Revenue Cutter at New Bedford, was knocked down and severely bruised by a sailor whom he was attempting to arrest in New Bedford on Saturday last, for an assault upon another individual.

Lauriat will start from East Boston on the 4th, instead of Chelsea. The Mayor will hold a levee in the morning—music on the common in the evening.

Commodore Dallas's squadron had arrived before Matamoros, but his demands were complied with without firing a gun.

The insurrection in Mexico headed by Gen. Montezuma, had been put down, and the General killed.

The Opobone, at New Orleans from Vera Cruz, has on board $131,000 in specie.

Bostons's message to Congress expresses a hope that amicable relations with this country will soon be re-established. He says, "the government is incessantly occupied in directing measures calculated to insure success to the Mexican arms, and to restore to the republic its most remote limits in the territory of Texas."

Death of Capt. Hammond.—On the 9th instant we announced as a report from the ship, Marmion that Capt. Hammond of that vessel had been drowned. We learned yesterday that the body of a white man, clothed in blue pantaloons, white shirt and a pair of common suspenders, was found on the 15th inst. floating near the bank of the river, opposite Cornin's plantation in the parish of Plaquemine.

The hands and feet were tied with a small rope, the back of the skull fractured, a pocket book in one of the pockets, containing some papers, bearing the name of C. B. Hammond. These facts seem to indicate that a murder had been committed; and we doubt not the attorney general will take the necessary steps to discover the authors of the crime.—New Orleans Bee.

The following, however, appears to explain the mystery:—

Before me, one of the Associate Judges of City Court, personally appeared LORENZO D. DEXTER, Mate of the schooner Marmion, who being duly sworn, says, that on the seventh of this month, opposite to the Beef Market Wharf, in this city, he was present when at one o'clock of night, the captain, Charles B. Hammond, in a fit of folly threw himself overboard of the said schooner, and got drowned; for he did not re-appear after. Said affiant says that the Captain being mad, had himself requested to be tied; and that he, said affiant, in the presence of the crew, and with their help, tied him: this was about 10 o'clock in the same night.

LORENZO D. DEXTER.

The reports about the resumption of the war on the part of the Indians are without truth. Those who have withdrawn from Tampa did so for fear of the measles, which had begun to rage there, and were apprehensive it would prove as fatal as the small pox.

The Indians regularly receive their rations at Fort Molton, and are friendly disposed. They all seem inclined to postpone their emigration till fall.

The officers who arrived in the Georgia, travelled from Tampa Bay through the country, and were in no wise molested by the Indians.

The Globe of Monday night contains the letter of the Postmaster General to the Chief Justice of the Circuit Court of the District, giving the ground on which he denies their legal authority to issue a mandamus, commanding him to credit Messrs Stockton & Stokes, and others, with a certain sum of money awarded them by the late Solicitor of the Treasury. Also the opinion of the Attorney General in relation to the power of the Circuit Court for the District of Columbia to issue a mandamus to compel the Postmaster General to credit Messrs Stockton & Stokes and others with a certain sum of money. They occupy eleven columns and a half of the Globe. As these documents embrace points of great public interest, we shall copy them into our columns entire in the course of a few days.

An attempt was made to rob the express Mail near Abington, Md. on Sunday night. The rider was fired at by two men armed with pistols, and one of the balls passed through his hat. He however escaped unhurt.

Office of the Commercial Register, June 11.

We have another terrible steamboat accident to record, with a dreadful loss of life. The steamboat Crusader, which plies between Pascagoula and New Orleans, burst her boiler on Monday morning—killed one man instantly, and scalded 11 others, nearly all fatally. She was found at anchor near Rabbit Island by the U. S. Mail Boat Mobile, Capt. Sheridan. The Captain of the Mobile abandoned her voyage and returned to New Orleans towing the Crusader. Three of the scalded died before they reached the Lake landing, and a number more were not expected to survive. We cannot learn any particulars of the cause of the disaster, nor the names of the sufferers. One was a passenger, a Frenchman, the others were mostly boat hands.

Wholesale Robbery.—The Cincinnati Whig of the 19th inst. states that most of the stores in Covington (Ky.) were broken into the evening before, by a gang of villains, and large quantities of goods taken therefrom. Seven of the gang are said to have been arrested and committed to prison the next morning.

Specie.—The British Government purchased 120,000 silver dollars in New York, for the payment of the troops in Canada, which came up in the steamboat North America last night.—Albany Eve. Journal.

Washington, June 26.—Bank of the Metropolis.—We understand from good authority, that the Bank of the Metropolis, late the deposit bank in this city, has paid the whole of its debt to the Treasurer of the United States, except a mere trifle, which will be extinguished in a few days time. Also that she has reduced her discount line five hundred thousand dollars since February last; and her circulation nearly to one third of what it was a few months ago.—Globe.

It was rumored on Saturday that the bank of Washington was to resume specie payments in a few days—and was, of course, to have the Government Deposits. We do not know the foundation for the rumor.—Alex. Gaz.

Elections in Alabama—Good Signs.—The election of Mr Spann, (V. B.) to the State Senate from Henry County, is the place of General Irwin, (W.) restores the same division of parties that existed last session—which had been changed unfortunately by the election of Jemison, (W.) in Lauderdale County. Hutchings, (V. B.) has been elected to the House of Representatives, by a large majority over James Jackson, (W.) to fill the vacancy occasioned by the appointment of Mr McKinley to the Supreme Court Bench. The vote was for Hutchings, 700—Jackson, 197—majority 503.—Mobile Register.

Mr Charles West informs us that his testimony before the Police Court on Wednesday was not correctly reported in every particular—it should have been rendered thus—

POLICE COURT.

Riot Case—Continued—Thursday.—Defendant, George Prime, huckman. The only witness against him was a brother driver—

J. B. Child—I went down to the riot some time after 6 o'clock—near the arch near Purchase street, they were throwing things out of the windows, and others were breaking up what was thrown out—I saw Prime there—he had a piece of wood in his hand, like an ordinary staff of a barrel, with which he was striking at the things that were thrown out—I don't know that he broke anything by striking at them. I saw him lay down his stick, and take up a feather bed, that had been thrown out and shake it. When he took up the bed, the feathers began to fly. He was to work on the bed when I left. When I left, the military were between me and Milk street.

Cross-examined.—Prime drives for Mr Lovejoy, in Pleasant street, and so do I. On Monday morning, I told Mr Lovejoy that I had seen Prime at the riot. On Tuesday morning Mr Lovejoy introduced the subject, and Prime and me had a conversation about it. This was before I had given any information to the City Authorities. Prime denied being there. He used profane language, but it did not irritate me, though it might have irritated some people. I don't recollect that his profane language was followed by a threat, on my part, to have him arrested. I told him he was liable to be arrested. Mr Lovejoy did not urge me not to go and lodge any complaint against Prime.

Three witnesses were called for the Defence, viz:—

Luke Damon—driver for Mr Lovejoy—took tea with Prime—then went down to Broad street with him—at bottom of Purchase street, lost him in the crowd.

Alden Graham—drives for Marsh & Co.—was at the riot about half past 5 or 6 o'clock—saw Prime several times, in one neighborhood, but did not see him do anything.

Daniel Downs—a lad—saw Prime at the corner of Broad and Purchase streets—lost him there—about 15 minutes after. Saw him at the corner of India wharf, and spoke to him—I did not see him do anything, or hear him say anything to encourage the riot—he was only looking on and talking about what was going on. When the militia came, we went home.

Cross examined.—When we were standing together, we were right opposite a house that they were breaking up. We stood at this corner about 10 minutes.

Mr Park observed, that under the ruling of the Court, on Wednesday, there appeared to be a question in the case to be tried by a jury.

B. H. Andrews, for the Prosecution, did not make any argument.

The Court remarked, that the two first witnesses, for the Defence, did not contradict Child, the G. Vermont witness; but there was a direct contradiction between Downs and Child, upon a material point of time; and which of the two was entitled to credit was a matter for a jury to settle.

Prime was then ordered to find bonds in the sum of $300, and procure the bail.

A little the maddest fellow what we ever see'd, was one Harrigan, who was brought up by Constable Pierce, for selling liquor in a not-y sailors' rowdy, without a license, in Broad street. He told the officer, that he had no right to arrest him, and he would not be arrested, nor go to Court, or anywhere else unless he pleased, and he didn't please to budge on this particular occasion. Harrigan admitted his refusal to be arrested, and justified it by the following comprehensible reply:—"Do you suppose I am so incomprehensible as not to understand that you cannot put me in jail without cause?"

Court—It is a sufficient cause, that you sell liquor without a license.

Harrigan—Well, how am I to get along?

Court—If you cannot get along here without selling ardent spirits without a license, you must go somewhere else to get along.

Harrigan—Your Honor don't seem to unders my situation. I sell spirits, chiefly for the States' service, and I have to let them have liquor in order to have them stay at my place. I have more business than my neighbors, and they envy me, and bring this thing against me. I cannot get along in my business unless I let them have liquor.

Court—Well then you cannot sell it without a license.

Harrigan—Why, would you have me let them I ship go round to other places for their liquor, and have other people make money by them, all because they are mad with me, because I do more business than they do? How can I keep my men, and have them ready when they are wanted?

Court—Unless you keep them drunk, eh? The fact is, you must be stopped—you have been fined once this week, and you must now pay another fine of $20.00, and costs.

This was a double dose, and Harrigan took it like a drug-sick patient. He appeared to think that his Honor was a very obtuse physician, not to understand his case better; but the course of half an hour, he somewhat revived, and gained strength enough to walk up to the Clerk's desk, and hand over the doctor's fee.

Mr James Bride, of the Lafayette Hotel, was charged with selling ardent spirits on Sunday the 11th inst. contrary to the provisions of the License Act of the last Session. The first witness examined was William H. Hoogs, who testified that on the day alleged he was in the bar-room, and while there saw four or eight glasses of brandy, gin, or punch sold. He saw Mr Bride in the bar, but could not swear positively that he saw him help any one to liquor.

Cross-examined.—I live at the corner of Church and Shawmut streets. After dinner I went up to Park House, and said there 15 minutes. I then went down to the Lafayette.

Mr Park.—What did you see Mr Bride do?

Hoogs—All that I saw him do that I can swear to, was to speak to his bar-keeper; from circumstances which took place immediately afterwards, I suppose that he suspected us of being spies, for he came right round to sit beside us.

Mr Park.—What was you sitting there for?

Hoogs—I was sitting there taking notice of the tipplers that came in.

Mr Park.—Did you call for anything to drink there?

Hoogs—I did not ask for any liquor. I did not go in for that purpose, but went on purpose to see if any ardent spirits was sold there.

Charles C. White was the next witness—he was in company with Hoogs, and like him, testified that he had seen four or eight glasses so d.

Mr Park here objected, that the witnesses had not proved that Mr Bride was the keeper of the house.

Mr Hoogs.—If you will only give me time, I'll bring witnesses to prove that Mr Bride is the regular bunny-fied keeper of the house.

Mr Park couldn't face a witness that quoted Latin, and clipped it in the process, and so abandoned the defence; and Mr Bride paid down a Twenty Spot, and trimmings.

Propriety of Costume.—A bluff-faced old lady—some where between fifty and seventy years of age—showed off gaily in pantalettes on Wednesday. After beating up Leverett and Green streets, she sailed down Court street, with the wind amid ships, and made the North West corner of Court and Washington streets precisely at 10h. 45m. A. M. The breeze was very brisk, which enabled those who chanced to take an observation, and notice that her pantalettes were as clean and white as the driven snow.

Serpent tongued Child.—There is a most miserable hoax, copied from the Fall River Patriot, contained in a letter addressed, we believe, to the Editor of that paper, and dated at Tiverton, R. I. It gives an account of a child, which, in the place of its tongue, has the head and neck of a real serpent, and whenever a stranger approaches, the wretched child opens its mouth, and the head of this serpent darts out, hissing, and menacing, and protruding its forked tongue, after the manner of any other snake. Now this is without doubt, a hoax; and a miserable one because it is calculated only to give the reader painful and melancholy reflections, if he should be disposed to believe it. We can pardon anything like the "Moon Hoax," which was both humorous, instructive and entertaining—but such a wretched attempt at imposition as this account of the serpent tongued child—a circumstance that involves an actual impossibility, and which is calculated to wound the feelings of all readers who have any sensibility, and to excite the terrors of superstitions, and delicate women, ought to be severely censured. We have taken no pains to inquire into the truth of the story, for it carries falsehood of the most ridiculous nature on the very face of it.—It is too absurd to merit investigation.
